ASX ANNOUNCEMENT

IMEXHS accepted on Ingram Micro Cloud Marketplace

HIGHLIGHTS

- IMEXHS establishes distribution channel with Ingram Micro Cloud, world's largest cloud marketplace and end-to-end commerce platform
- Inclusion of IMEXHS's HIRUKO multi-tenant, cloud-based software on the Ingram platform expected to increase the product's accessibility to end users and drive scale across its global footprint
- Partnership with Ingram Micro Cloud highlights unique characteristics of IMEXHS's medical imaging Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) solution

IMEXHS Limited (ASX: IME) ("IMEXHS" or "the Company") today announces that it has established a distribution channel with Ingram Micro Cloud, a world-leading premium cloud services provider. IMEXHS's medical imaging software, HIRUKO, will be available across the Ingram Micro Cloud Marketplace.

Ingram Micro Cloud delivers a vast range of global technology services to businesses across the world, connecting buyers to sellers in over 45 marketplaces. Under the agreement, IMEXHS will sell its next-generation cloud-based software across multiple marketplace platforms including Australia, Latin America and the United States.

IMEXHS CEO, Dr German Arango said: "The partnership with Ingram Micro Cloud is a strong endorsement of our unique multi-tenant cloud-based software and IMEXHS's position as a leading innovator in medical imaging and AI. The agreement reflects our strategic priority to expand our global footprint using partnerships with key distributors to drive scale and leverage our SaaS subscription model across multiple geographies. Ingram's Marketplace provides us with another distribution channel as well as an easy to deploy sales offering that will target small to mid-complexity end users. We remain focused on driving subscription revenue growth as we continue to enhance the medical imaging experience for doctors and patients around the world."

Authorised for release by Dr German Arango, Chief Executive Officer.
